A session on "Mirror Work – How Grooming & Self-Care Impact Mental Health"

The Career Development and Placement Cell of M.A.M. B-School organized a session titled "Mirror Work – How Grooming & Self-Care Impact Mental Health" on April 23, 2025, at 11:00 a.m. The session aimed to educate students on the relationship between personal grooming, self-care habits, and mental well-being, while addressing prevalent issues such as insecurity about personal appearance and the impact of societal beauty standards. The resource person for the session was Ms. Madano Dharshini, Managing Director of Reshmi Salon, a well-known personality in the beauty and wellness sector. She shared her professional insights on the concept of "Mirror Work," a practice involving positive affirmations and self-reflection in front of the mirror to build emotional strength and self-confidence. She emphasized that grooming and self-care are not merely about physical appearance but essential aspects of psychological and emotional wellness.

Ms. Madano Dharshini also highlighted how media and social platforms create unrealistic standards of beauty, which often lead to feelings of inadequacy and low self-worth, especially among youth. She encouraged students to understand that beauty acceptance is a key element in developing self-esteem and mental resilience. By accepting their natural appearance and embracing individuality, students can perform better in both personal and professional spheres. Ms. Madano Dharshini explained that being well-groomed and confident helps create a strong first impression, especially during interviews and workplace interactions. The session thus helped students gain a clear understanding of how personal presentation and inner confidence influence professional success.

The students actively participated in discussions, and the session concluded with a Q&A segment where Ms. Dharshini responded to concerns about managing appearance-related anxiety, developing healthy grooming habits, and overcoming media-driven insecurities. She provided practical, affordable tips suitable for student life and encouraged them to maintain a consistent self-care routine. The event was coordinated and executed smoothly. The Career Development and Placement Cell made all the required arrangements for the successful completion of the programme, ensuring the active engagement of students and the smooth conduct of the session. Overall, the session was a valuable experience for the participants. It sensitized them to the importance of self-care, emotional well-being, and beauty acceptance, and its implications for professional readiness. The initiative reflects M.A.M. B-School's ongoing commitment to the holistic development of its students, preparing them not just academically but also emotionally and professionally for future challenges.

adoption across industries, and the role it plays in reshaping modern business infrastructure. He then discussed in detail the four key service models of cloud computing: Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS), Platform as a Service (PaaS), Software as a Service (SaaS), and Function as a Service (FaaS). Through real-time examples, he helped students understand how each model provides different levels of control, flexibility, and management for users. IaaS was explained as the foundation of cloud services where users can rent IT infrastructure like virtual machines and storage. PaaS was described as a developer-friendly model offering tools to build, test, and deploy applications. SaaS was elaborated as ready-to-use software hosted on the cloud, such as Gmail and Dropbox. FaaS, or serverless computing, was highlighted as an emerging service where developers deploy functions without managing servers, with platforms like AWS Lambda and Azure Functions.

In the next part of the workshop, he introduced the three main types of cloud deployment models—Public Cloud, Private Cloud, and Hybrid Cloud—and discussed their suitability for various organizational needs. He also covered the criteria for selecting cloud data center services, including performance, availability, security, and compliance. The session continued with a detailed explanation of the core characteristics of cloud computing, such as on-demand self-service, broad network access, multi-tenancy and resource pooling, rapid elasticity and scalability, and measured service usage. These features, he explained, are what make cloud computing a flexible and cost-effective option for businesses today. A major segment of the workshop focused on the three leading cloud service providers: Amazon Web Services (AWS), Microsoft Azure, and Google Cloud Platform (GCP).

Mr. Sengottuvelu explained how each platform offers a wide range of services used by enterprises worldwide. AWS was noted for its vast service offerings and scalability, Azure for its seamless integration with Microsoft products and enterprise-grade solutions, and GCP for its capabilities in data analytics, machine learning, and containerized applications. He also emphasized the importance of cloud certifications and encouraged students to explore free-tier cloud accounts to gain hands-on experience. The workshop concluded with an engaging interactive session where students clarified their doubts regarding career paths, practical applications, and future trends in cloud computing. The Department of MCA made all necessary arrangements to ensure the smooth

Workshop on "Data Analytics tools"

M.A.M. B-School's Department of MCA organized a two-day workshop on Data Analytics Tools on 8th and 9th October 2024, featuring Ms. Rajashree Mohan, MCA, M.Phil., Founder & Director of ITechtunerz, as the resource person. The workshop aimed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of Power BI and Tableau, two of the most widely used tools for data analytics and visualization. On the first day, Ms. Rajashree introduced Power BI, covering key topics such as data import, transformation, and the creation of interactive dashboards. She emphasized real-world applications, allowing participants to work with live datasets and create their own reports. Ms. Rajashree Mohan began the workshop by explaining the various Business Intelligence (BI) tools available in the market today and highlighting the importance of choosing the right tool for data analytics, specifically focusing on Power BI. She emphasized the critical role of visualization in data analytics, showing how the right visual representations can uncover insights more effectively. Ms. Rajashree also went into detail about different types of visualization charts and provided guidance on selecting the appropriate chart based on the type of data being analyzed. She demonstrated how to connect Power BI to multiple data sources, enabling students to import and analyze real-time data. To reinforce the learning, she concluded the first day by assigning a small self-exploratory task, encouraging students to apply what they had learned and further explore Power BI on their own.

On the second day, Ms. Rajashree Mohan conducted a live demonstration on various graphs and visualization techniques available in Tableau to enhance data visualization effectiveness. She showcased how different types of graphs can be used to represent data in a meaningful way, helping students understand the importance of choosing the right visualization for clear insights. Ms. Rajashree also demonstrated how to connect Tableau with a MongoDB database, allowing participants to work with real-time data from this NoSQL database. She explained that Tableau is a powerful analytics solution that enables users to connect, analyze, and share data. She highlighted several Tableau products designed to support different stages of data analysis and visualization, including Tableau Cloud, Tableau Desktop, Tableau Prep Builder, and Tableau Server. The sessions included hands-on exercises, enabling students to design their own dashboards and explore data analysis techniques in depth. Through this practical, hands-on training, the workshop equipped students with the skills to utilize both tools for advanced data analytics, preparing them for future career opportunities in data science and business intelligence. The workshop was highly appreciated for its detailed content and the valuable, real-world experience it provided to the participants.
